eight images from the road, all from spain and portugal, except the one with the chicken, which we took in the Dominican Republic.

resumen / brief description >
